

ABSTRACT

A radio receiver having a plurality of features programmable by a user, the data relating - to the programmable features defining a set-up configuration. The radio receiver includes a housing and an auxiliary memory disposed within the housing which stores a plurality of set-up 5 configurations. A working memory is also disposed within the housing and is configured to store the set-up configuration in use by the radio receiver.